CNC Fast-Track Training with Paid Internship Program begins May 23, 2016!

PROGRAM OVERVIEW:

The CNC Fast-Track Training Program is focused on the knowledge and skills necessary for employment as a CNC mill or lathe operator. The ten week classroom training is followed by an 8-week paid internship and is designed for students to obtain high-quality manufacturing jobs. There are two nationally industry recognized credentials embedded into the program: National Career Readiness Certificate (NCRC) and National Institute of Metal Working Skills (NIMS) along with OSHA Safety Certification. The fast-track training program is a combination of for-credit and non-credit course work which were identified by employers. These education pathways are directly aligned to career pathways in manufacturing, so students progressing through the program have the opportunity to earn national certifications with labor market value, college credit towards a degree, and the hands-on technical experience to be successful on the job.
